

CRITICAL MANAGEMENT STUDIES DIVISION

DOCTORAL STUDENT CONSORTIUM

2017 Academy of Management Annual Meeting, Atlanta, GA, USA

CALLING ALL DOCTORAL STUDENTS!

APPLICATION DEADLINE: JUNE 2, 2017

The CMS Doctoral Student Consortium offers PhDs (who are at any stage in their program) a great opportunity to connect with like-minded individuals and explore ideas, share knowledge and contribute to discussions about critical management studies research, teaching and engagement.

The Consortium will be held on (time to be confirmed) and will include a buffet breakfast. This year we have developed an interactive consortium whereby participants will be given the opportunity to have an in-depth conversation with two members in our community about their developmental needs in the following areas: research, publishing, teaching, and career. We are aware that our needs change as we progress in our doctoral careers, so this year students only need to select themes which they currently find most salient to them. The Division's Professional Development Workshop Program, which commences after the Consortium and runs through to Saturday evening, offers participants further opportunities for development.

While the Consortium is targeted at students affiliated with the CMS Division, we also welcome students with a primary affiliation to another Division, who see critical scholarship as important.

Students interested in participating in the Consortium should complete the application form (<http://cms.aom.org/wp-content/uploads/CMS-doctoral-consortium-2017.pdf>) and email it by the deadline (Friday, June 2, 2017) to Stephen Cummings and Ash Prasad (stephen.cummings@vuw.ac.nz and prasad@itesm.mx). Please note that places are limited and will be assigned on a first-come, first-served basis.
